

-Real Women Want Children-

No matter what vocation you have in life, women all have the call and the desire to fulfill the God-given gift of the role of motherhood. For married women who are called to bear children, there is a fulfillment of the role through being a mother to those children. For married women who are not called to bear children, there is a fulfillment of the role through being a mother-figure to siblings and relatives on both their side of the family and their husband's, to friends, neighbors' children, local children in one's town, and children in one's neighborhood school and parish. For women called to the single life, every person among their friends and family and every single person they come into contact with can help them to fulfill the role of "mother" because, as a single woman, one is called to devote herself entirely as a mother-figure to the care of others. As for women called to the religious life- every Abbess is a Mother with the Church and with those around her and every Sister- every single one of a Mother's children- also has her own group of spiritual children among her friends, family, relatives, mentors, pupils (whether they be students or just people who look to them for advice), and personal circle of influence. This is how they fulfill their role of motherhood in their vocations. For consecrated perpetual virgins, there is a fulfillment of the role through all possible relationships in both the world and in the Church, with a special motherly focus upon those in their circle of influence at work who can receive a solid spiritual message just by knowing a lay person who is openly married to God. Every mother, every woman, has a vocation in which they must preach Christ's Love through their very life and their position in it. All mothers are called to teach their children about God through word and example, and all mothers are called to see Jesus in every one of their children and all the children of the world and love them as they do God; for God created every one of them.

When you think of treating all children as you would Christ, please think about caring for them, listening to what they have to say, and loving them, instead of thinking about crucifying them. Christ on the cross said "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." And that is why God is merciful. Women and men who have committed the moral sin of murdering their baby need not fear the wrath of God if they repent sincerely and ask His forgiveness. God forgives. For we have all crucified Him through one sin or another. Christ died and rose to set us all free- equally including the victims whom the devil has persuaded to have abortions. There is salvation. Love that baby who is in Heaven, love all of God's children throughout the world, and treat them as you now desire to treat Christ- by caring for them, listening to what they have to say, and loving them. And then you will be doing all of these things for Christ. You will be fulfilling your God-given desire to love God instead of crucifying Him and, through your love, you will also be fulfilling your God-given role of "mother". Then you will be a real woman. May all women throughout the world be real women, just as God called them to be; their vocations perfectly aligned with His Will and being carried out in co-operation with Him; guided on the Path to Perfect Love and Eternity in Heaven with God- the Divine Spouse of all the Church.

For a suggested donation of $2.00, you can receive our gift of a “Real Women Want Children” bumper sticker and help us to proclaim to the world what God has called all women to be. Join the fight for life, fulfillment, and freedom today. When each person plays the role that God called them to in life, there is true freedom and “living Christ” is achieved by all through the power, mercy, love, redemption, and grace of God. We could put up one billboard for some hundred thousand dollars; we could air one commercial on TV for a little more than that; OR we could reach out to the whole world and ask everyone to join us in our quest to make every car in this country- and, then, in the world- into a mobile billboard for all to see, boldly stating that we are pro-life and that we want to be who God created us to be.

Real Women Want Children. $2.00 for this gift is something just about everyone can afford to donate. If you can donate a bit more, that will be greatly appreciated as well. I’m putting in my $2.00 this week. And maybe I’ll get two. Husbands, don’t be afraid to get these stickers to show support for your wives. Men, show that you are real gentlemen and get this sticker to promote real women’s rights. The smallest amounts of money make the largest difference. Why have one billboard or one commercial when, with a simple two dollar donation by everyone in the country, the world will be God’s stage to proclaim the rights of His children? Every woman is a mother. Women, be women. Men, be men and support women. Real women want children. So do real men. Every man and woman is a child of God and all real children of God want to do His Will.

Please Donate Today. God Bless you all, my brothers, sisters, fathers, and mothers. Let us truly be the family of God; the body of Christ, the Church; the children of our Heaven Father; and the spouses of our Divine Spouse and Redeemer.
